The hiking trail is located in an area of the forest specifically managed for early successional wildlife. The area has a diversity of habitats composed of aspen forest, oak/pine forest, river bottomlands spruce bog and open bog. The trail has several scenic locations including overlooks of the Wolf River and Aninnan Lake. Management of this area supports many species of birds including some rare species such as the gold winged warbler.

Management of this area benefits many game species including turkey, grouse, woodcock, deer and black bear. Hunting is permitted on the hiking trails during the open seasons, but must be done outside of the park boundary.

Please respect the forest don't litter or harass wildlife.
